

College Of Southern Nevada, Media Tech Newsletter

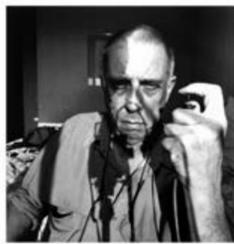

August 30, 2021

Hello and Welcome Back to a New Semester. We are so happy to see you online and in the classroom. The number one thing to remember is your faculty is here to help and encourage you. If you have a question be sure to ask! If you have a thought be sure to share it. If you are excited and invigorated we want to know.

Have a great semester.

Inspired:

Lee Friedlander - Self-portrait

What art, artists, directors, photographers, film makers, podcasts, design, designers, films, websites inspire you each day? How do you keep the creativity flowing? Each week we will share a variety of links to get those juices flowing. This week I am sharing my all time favorite photographer, Lee Friedlander. Yep, he is not young. His work has influenced me every day for the past 30 years. Each time I explore the work of Friedlander I find something new. I hope you enjoy his eye.

Next up:
Debbie Millman - Design Matters.

I have been listening to Design Matters podcast for a few years. Dan McElhattan, our CSN Design Program Director, recommended this inspiring designer to me. I was hooked and have been listening to the podcast for years. What a great interview she does with the best of the best in the creative fields. Subscribe and listen!

Here is a Chase Jarvis Live video where Debbie talks about: If not now, when?

Let's not forget our friends in the film program. We live in Las Vegas. What a fabulous city to explore and be inspired in. This article link ranks the 10 best movies set in Las Vegas according to IMDB. How many have you seen?

For me I have seen 8 of the 10 - I better watch the other 2. The house in the movie Casino is located in the Paradise Palms, Mid Century Modern neighborhood of Las Vegas. I love some Mid Century architecture.
